About Ho Teaching Hospital

HO Teaching Hospital is the fifth public Teaching Hospital in Ghana. It was re-commissioned by the Minister of Health, Hon. Kwaku Agyeman Manu as a Teaching Hospital on the 29th April, 2019 after the Hospital went through vigorous accreditation process by all the Health Professional Regulatory Bodies and the Health Facilities Regulatory Authority. The Hospital was constructed by Kaevenor Construction International of United Kingdom and handed over to the Government of Ghana in November 1998. It commenced service delivery in April 1999 on a small scale. In December 2000, the Hospital was officially commissioned as the Volta Regional Hospital by the former President John Jerry Rawlings and his wife.

About the Cardio Center

The Cardiothoracic Centre of the Ho Teaching Hospital which mainly operates on OPD basis started clinical consultation and cardiothoracic diagnostic services to adult and pediatric patients on 24th May 2019 when construction and furnishings for three OPD consulting rooms were completed.

The Center is not yet equipped with a ward for in-patient service. The staff regularly assists with in-patient management at the pediatric and neonatal units of the hospital, as well as the emergency and medical departments. The OPD runs specialist consultations on Fridays while investigations in the form of electrocardiographs and echo-cardiograms are performed daily and on emergency basis throughout the week. OPD attendance has grown over the period from 348 in 2019 to 2,639 by the end of the first quarter of 2022. All surgical cases are referred to the National Cardiothoracic Center in Korle-Bu due to the lack of surgical space and equipment.

About The Save
a Heart,
Save a Life Project

On Thursday, June 25, 2021, the hospital launched the Cardiothoracic Disease Center Fundraising Project aimed at the equipping the hospital's cardiothoracic center. The ambitious "Save a Life, Save a Heart Fundraising Project" will see the teaching hospital and its partners raise more than $3.2 million to improve the already existing center with modern state-of-the-art equipments, making it a reference center for patients suffering from various cardiovascular issues in Ghana and across the subregion.

Chief Executive Officer of the hospital, Dr. John Tampuori speaking at the launch of the project said the initiative has the possibility of making Ho Teaching Hospital a medical tourist center in the Volta Region noting that centers of such magnitude can manage both lungs and heart diseases.

The initiation of the project is to make sure Ho Teaching Hospital becomes the newest medical tourist center in the Volta Region. It must be noted that a fully functional and well-resourced cardiovascular center positioned to holistically manage both lungs and heart diseases will enable the hospital to offer world-class services to its numerous clients.
